

Bryan M. Mahoney

Sector Vice President, Operations and Site Leader, Palmdale Site
Northrop Grumman Aeronautics Systems

Bryan M. Mahoney is sector vice president, Operations and site leader, Palmdale Site, for Northrop Grumman Aeronautics Systems, a premier provider of military aircraft, autonomous systems, aerospace structures and next-generation solutions.

In this role, Mahoney oversees manufacturing, assembly and production activity across the sector and is responsible for the Facilities and Environmental, Safety, Health and Medical organizations. He leads a team of more than 6,500 employees that produces some of the most capable and technologically advanced aeronautics systems. Mahoney is accountable for developing new, innovative and affordable manufacturing techniques and expanding processes to potential manufacturing locations around the globe.

Previously, Mahoney served as vice president of Global Manufacturing and site leader of the St. Augustine Site in Florida, for Northrop Grumman's heritage Aerospace Systems sector. In that role, he led the manufacturing operations in St. Augustine and managed the daily operations and activities at the site.

Mahoney's career in the aerospace industry spans more than 30 years. He began his career with Northrop Grumman in 1988 in the paint shop of the company's Commercial Aircraft Division in Hawthorne, California. Mahoney has held leadership positions of increasing responsibility in production and manufacturing operations and program management at Northrop Grumman and Vought Corporation.

Northrop Grumman solves the toughest problems in space, aeronautics, defense and cyberspace to meet the ever evolving needs of our customers worldwide. Our 90,000 employees define possible every day using science, technology and engineering to create and deliver advanced systems, products and services.